LOCAL DANCE HALLS SEND GIRLS TO INDUSTRIAL HOME

"Downfall" of Three Victims, Sentenced Yesterday Traced to Attendance at Cheap Public Dances

Yesterday morning three more girls, eldest 16 years old, the youngest 14, were sentenced by Judge W. F. Hines in juvenile court to terms in the Girls Industrial Home at Morrison. Each of these three girls—not one of them more than a child in years—had committed the one unpardonable sin, details of the case were such as to reveal a condition of morality in Colorado Springs that demands the serious consideration of every man and woman in the city. It is a story of the divorce court, of poverty, of parents who seem to have given up all decency, of a girl who, for amusement, had led astray in the dance halls of Colorado Springs. It all started in the divorce court. The mother of two of the girls was separated from the father. She was obliged to go out to work. The girls were neglected. What little home income there had been was lost. The girls ran wild. When the mother married again, matters only became worse. Her second husband was a man in a dance hall, whose moral responsibility was almost entirely effaced. It was his interest that the girls should at-

UNEARTH ARSON TRUST IN CHICAGO INVOLVES HUNDREDS IN PLOT FOR INSURANCE

Windy City Investigation Is Making Officials Start Prosecutions

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—With the indictment today of Joseph Clarke, for an alleged attempt to bribe an assistant state's attorney not to prosecute an arson case, A. A. Bach, chief deputy state fire marshal, told a remarkable story of organized incendiarism. "Chicago has the highest fire insurance rate of any city in the country and 10 per cent of its fires are incendiary," Bach said. "The fire bugs are not banded together as one gang, but there are several groups at work and the rivalry among the different gangs is as keen as the competition between any class of tradesmen. There are three men in Chicago known as insurance adjusters who often get to work before the firemen. They sleep with their clothes on, have automobiles at readiness and, receiving tips that a fire is about to be started, are on their feet almost before an alarm comes in."

To Stimulate Business.

"The adjusters do not actually start fires themselves, the employer pays them to have the fire insurance company pay them money by adjusting the losses. The adjusters and firemen generally know the name of the arson firm that is responsible for each fire. It is nothing unusual for a fireman to say, 'That is a fire, or Mr. Bach said that the firebugs know that they are suspected but they are very clever.'"

"It is possible for anyone to get a building fired in Chicago," he continued. "There are fixed charges for work and the man who desires to burn his property will find incendiaries adding against each other for the job. If small fires there is a regulation charge of 20 per cent of the insurance policy. Charges vary according to the magnitude of the fire. For large fires the charge is one per cent, and for that price the firebugs grow fat. I do not know a single conclusion for arson in Chicago in the last six months."

Clarke was released tonight on a $500 bond, signed by all wife.

Dinner to Trust.

States Attorney Hayne declared today that he had evidence that Clarke sent a dinner at his home to meet every member of the so-called arson trust. The inquiry, said Hayne, gradually widening and now involves officials insurance companies, independent adjusters and adjusters employed insurance companies. He still refuses to make public any names of those said to be in the "ring" except Clarke.

PERKINS SEES DANGER IN MONEY

Financier, Before Pujo Committee, Advises Publicity as Cure for Present Evils

FEDERAL CONTROL EXCHANGE

Rockefeller Will Submit to Short Examination—Schiff Up for Probe Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—In a hypothetical question put to George W. Perkins, Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the money trust committee, outlined today from the records of the committee a concentration of money and credit, and asked whether Mr. Perkins considered it a menace and peril to the prosperity of the country. The question generally was answered as Mr. Untermyer's conception of the elusive so-called money trust of which the committee is in search. Mr. Perkins, after declaring that the query reminded him of the conundrum "Why is a mouse when it speaks," asserted that he could not say whether concentration as outlined in the question was a peril.

Perkins' Recommendations.

Mr. Untermyer's hypothetical "money trust" question was put after Mr. Perkins had recommended publicity as a cure for financial evils, the incorporation of the New York Stock exchange under a federal charter, a closer responsibility among bank directors, and the according of representation on the Interstate to minority stockholders in corporations. The question was as follows:

"I call your attention to exhibits before the committee from which you will note that the following nine institutions, J. P. Morgan & Co. (and Drexel & Co.), Guaranty Trust company, Bankers Trust company, First National bank, National City bank, (Continued on Page Four.)

CITY OFFICIALS IN FAVOR OF PURCHASE

Think Municipal Control of Street Railway Would Prove Beneficial

Following the publication of an editorial in The Gazette last Tuesday relative to the purchase of the street railway system by the city, and recommending action by the commission and Attorney Mayor A. J. Hays and City Attorney McKee, yesterday expressed themselves in favor of the proposition.

"I favor the ownership of public utilities," said Mr. Hays, "and believe the purchase of the street railway by the city is a good plan under certain conditions. The property should be bought all at once, and there should be restrictions governing the purchase. It is a plan that must be investigated deeply before any definite action is taken."

"I would favor the operation of the system by a commission for the city and not by any one commission. Our water system is an example of the benefits derived from municipal ownership. The water system is paying off its bonds while giving adequate service and a satisfactory condition for the city."

"The suggestion for the purchase of the street railway by the city is excellent and I am in favor of it," said City Attorney McKee. "There is no doubt that the city is authorized to make the purchase under the existing conditions. I believe that the purchase would prove a paying investment for the city. Enslaved has been the plan successfully and several other cities in this country are adopting it."

"The value of municipal ownership of public utilities is shown in our water system, which, when the bonds are matured in 10 years will pay from its revenue a large part of the city's expenses."

INTERIOR DEPT. INVOLVED

Roosevelt Blames Inspectors. Colorado Settlers Were Forced to Move

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—That the Warren livestock company, of which Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming was the head, was maintaining unlawful enclosures of public lands in Wyoming and Colorado in 1906, was the substance of a report adopted today by the house committee on expenditures in the interior department. The committee's conclusion was based on the committee's investigation of reports and correspondence secured from the interior department, covering the investigation that was made by the government in 1906 and 1907. These records showed that after a second inspection, made by Assistant Attorney General Milton D. Purdy, at the request of President Roosevelt, Senator Warren's company was exonerated of the illegal acts which special agents of the interior department had charged.

A minority report drawn by Representative Burke of South Dakota also will be presented to the house. Mr. Burke holds that the records show that Senator Warren's company was not holding illegally any public land in 1906. No action against Senator Warren's company is recommended by the committee, the report being limited to the statement of conclusion that his company then was maintaining illegal fences.

SUGAR INTERESTS BATILE FOR LIFE IN COMMITTEE

Opening of Hard Battle to Prevent Big American Industry From Alleged Certain Destruction

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—Sugar refiners, beet sugar men, California cane producers, mineral water bottlers and others described in terms today upon the house committee on ways and means to fight the tariff issue. The California wine trade was particularly active in a desperate contention with the committee to keep the tariff on wine spirits and other liquors from being lowered.

The net result of the hearing was the acquisition of a little new information and the repetition of much data that has figured in hearings which led up to previous tariff bills. Nothing in the committee's examinations of the varying shades of sugar rate views indicated any weakening of the tentative Democratic plan for preventing another free sugar bill for passage by the house at the coming extra session of congress.

Some of the leading men in the sugar industry were present. Edwin H. Atkins, the vice president and managing director of the American Sugar Refining company, proposed a moderate reduction in the sugar tariff. Henry T. Oxnard of California and a dozen witnesses from California, Colorado, Montana, Wisconsin, Michigan, and other states were present to fight for tariff protection for American beet sugar interests.

R. E. Milling of Franklin, La., pleaded for tariff bars to avert the death knell of the sugar industry of that state. Former Governor R. M. Fernald of Maine, speaking for 75 per cent of the fruit canning industry of the country, advocated either free sugar or a reduced rate, while the American Brothers of Brooklyn through William A. Jamieson and the National Sugar Refining company through Joseph H. Lower, pleaded the free sugar rate.

Wine Producers Close.

William O'Hanlon, president of California Wine Association, and Mr. Yerkes, chairman of the California wine producers' association, declared that the tariff on wine spirits should be lowered.

RAIN MAKES FLOOD SITUATION CRITICAL

Thousands Homeless—Mayor Raises $20,000 Fund for Relief

CINCINNATI, Jan. 15.—A steady rain here today caused the slowly rising Ohio to come to a standstill to-night and reports of a general rain throughout the southern part led to predictions that another rise is inevitable. River men are of the opinion that if the rain stops by tomorrow morning the new rise will not exceed the crest reached last night—63.2 feet. Mayor Hunt will sign a $20,000 bond issue tomorrow to provide for the homeless.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 15.—The Ohio river hourly is flooding more territory and forcing farmers to flee from their homes to towns, many of which are feeling the effects of the overflow. All the low places in Evansville are submerged. Provisions are being distributed from the city hall, where Mayor Helman and other officials are directing the relief work. Skiffs and launches distributed food and fuel to water bound homes in Oakdale.

Fear of looting in sections where houses have been abandoned has caused the police to patrol the district in boats. At New Albany 1,000 persons are homeless but the city is able to care for them.

W. A. COARSON DIES; GREW UP WITH STATE

W. A. Coarson, who had been a resident of Colorado for the last 33 years, having come to this state in 1859, died at 11:30 o'clock last night at his home, 810 West Chuechar street. He was 75 years of age. Coarson was the first sheriff Boulder county ever held, and held that post for several years. He was a charter member of the Masonic order at Boulder.

His aged wife lives in this city. Arrangements for the funeral have not been made, but it will be in charge of El Paso lodge No. 13, A. F. and A. M.

Porto Rico Petitions New Constitution and Self-Government Now

BATTLE CREEK HAS BIG FIRE

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., Jan. 15.—Fire was started in the Eldred block, a three-story building in the center of the business district early this morning, destroyed that building and spread to the "Waikowen" block adjoining. At 2:30 a. m. the flames were spreading. At that time the loss was estimated at more than $200,000.

TURKEY MUST GET BUSY OR FIGHT

PATIENCE OF BALKANS THREATENED

Powers Abandon Scheme to Move Navies to Force Turkish Action

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The Balkan nations wish the world to know that they have not weakened in their determination to resume hostilities unless Turkey accepts their terms quickly, but in deference to the powers they may withhold the execution of their resolve a few days longer than seemed likely yesterday. As allies, they inaugurated the doctrine of "The Balkans for the Balkan peoples," and they declare they propose to maintain the right won by their united armies to be considered a great independent people and manage their own diplomacy according to their own national interests. While they are willing to concede a brief period of delay for Turkey's answer it is not without a view of resuming negotiations on a modified basis.

The Balkan nations have not changed their terms since they were presented December 23, while Turkey has yielded all along the line except at Adrianople and the Aegean islands. The allies have adopted their firm attitude to convince Turkey that no alternative is possible for the conclusion of peace except compliance with their original demands, but they wish to avoid alienating the sympathies of the powers; and for this reason they have decided to await patiently the result of the note of the powers to Constantinople.

Turkey, they say, may meet the powers in three ways. She may refuse flatly to follow the advice of Europe, she may give an inconclusive answer with the object of further postponing a decision, or she may ask for a continuation of peace negotiations on a new basis which might provide for the retention of Adrianople, but requiring the dismantling of its fortifications and a pledge that no attempt would be made in the future to fortify the town.

May Denounce Armistice.

Should Turkey refuse to follow the advice of the powers or give an evasive answer, the allies will ask for a continuation of the conferences, at which they officially will break off negotiations. This will be followed by the denunciation of the armistice. Turkey makes new proposals, the Bulgarian delegation will refer the matter to Sofia for consideration, although Bulgarians here consider it impossible that their government will renounce Adrianople and be satisfied to see the fortifications razed, especially as the powers, in their note to the ports, have recognized the right of the allies to its possession. The Greek, Serbian and Montenegrin delegations have notified Bulgaria they will have their full support, no matter what decision she may reach, but they will leave to her full liberty to make the final decision.

The ambassadorial conference discussed the situation today in general terms without coming to any conclusion.

Berlin, Jan. 15.—The question of a naval demonstration by the fleets of the European powers against Turkey was shelved, according to official reports here, prior to the attempts of the foreign ambassadors in London to formulate a joint note to be delivered to the Turkish government. Several of the great powers, including some not belonging to the Triple Alliance, declared against such a demonstration.

BRITISH HOME RULE ADVOCATES SAY SITUATION SIMILAR TO BREAK OF 1776

Wonderful Speeches Made by Balfour and Asquith in Parliament for Ulster Rule Find Parallel to Rebellion of American Colonies; Comes to Vote Today

LONDON, Jan. 15.—The starting point of the home rule bill on its final stage in the house of commons was the occasion for two speeches, which, said one, have been excellent in the house, one by Prime Minister Asquith and the other by Mr. Balfour, former leader of the opposition. Debate finally was adjourned until tomorrow when a division will be taken.

When the exchange of the day were called, Mr. Balfour, at the request of the opposition leader, Andrew Bonar Law, moved the rejection of the measure. Mr. Balfour, dealing with the bill in a general way, laid stress on the case of Ulster, charged the government with showing a dangerous want of appreciation of that section, and pointing his finger at the government bench, he said:

"If blood be spilled—which God forbid—the real assassins will be those who never have had the courage to face the situation."

Forget the Past, Is Plea.

Premier Asquith pleaded with the house to forget the past and give Ireland what the vast majority demanded. He laid stress on the safeguards introduced in the bill to prevent the Protestants from being oppressed by the majority, and repeated the government's offer to introduce any other safeguard if the opposition would outline what was wanted. He recalled that Mr. Balfour had made the gloomy predictions when the Liberals gave self government to South Africa. T. P. O'Connor approved the bill in behalf of the Nationalists. Thomas C. Agar-Robartes, one of the two Liberals opposing the measure, denounced the bill as one of coercion, and said that unless the Ulster question were settled, the bill was foredoomed to failure.

William O'Brien, leader of the Independent Nationalists, said that while he could not accept the bill as a final settlement of the Nationalist requirements, he regarded it as a sincere and courageous message of peace to Ireland.

The Laborites' adhesion to home rule was declared by James Parker, sitting for Halifax.

Mr. Balfour said that the government in the progress of the bill had

BELIEVE RAILROAD BANDIT CAPTURED

Boston Police Chase Daring Crook Find Records of Several Thefts

BOSTON, Jan. 15.—The lone bandit who has held up half a dozen railroad ticket offices in New York and Pennsylvania last month was captured in this city today, the police believe, when William J. Clayton, a bulky young man was taken into custody after a sensational chase following an attempted daylight robbery.

A diary found in one of Clayton's pockets gave what the police believe to be a list of railroad ticket office robberies, with the amounts which each netted. The list follows:

"December 17, New York, Wells Fargo, $500. December 23, Buffalo, Grand Truck, $327; January 2, New York, Erie, $200; January 10, Philadelphia, Erie, $200; January 11, Pittsburgh, B. & P., $54; January 14, Philadelphia, B. & P., $127."

The total amount of the sums mentioned is $1,633. The police also found $28 in cash and more than $1,000 in Wells-Fargo money orders in Clayton's possession.

The attempted robbery here occurred this afternoon at the ticket offices of the Boston and Maine railroad. Clayton, who had just purchased a ticket for Pittsfield, suddenly pointed a revolver at Cashier George Hacker, ordering him to give up all the money he had. As Hacker has slow in complying Clayton flourished the revolver again and ordered every person in the

$10,000,000 ASKED FOR TITANIC VICTIMS

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—A flood of petitions for damages through the loss of the steamer Titanic, filed today, included one from Mrs. Irene Wallace Harris, who claims $1,000,000 for the loss of her husband, Henry K. Harris, the theatrical manager. This is the heaviest of the 273 claims so far filed.

Mrs. May Fyfe of Scituate, Mass., asks $300,000 compensation for the loss of her husband, Jacques Fyfe, author. The claim of Mrs. Lily B. Millet, widow of Francis D. Millet, the artist, a Titanic victim, is $100,000. United States Judge Hand extended yesterday the time for filing petitions on claims to February 11.

The claims amount to more than $10,000,000, but the White Star line contends that its liability is limited under the United States statutes to less than $100,000, the value of recovered wreckage and passage money.

101-YEAR-OLD MAN DIES

— PRAISING SINGLE BLISS

DENVER, Jan. 15.—For 101 years and 20 days Miss Mary Shearin had plodded life's path alone. Today she died after two days' illness, thankful until the last moment that she had never married. Miss Shearin attributed her longevity to the fact that she never "bent her back over the wash tub, never folded and served an ungrateful man, never had to nurse children, wash dishes or put up with the absurdities of the brutal husband she might have had if she had taken the chance.

At the age of 20, Miss Shearin came to the United States from County Mayo, Ireland, and settled in Chicago. She remained there with her family until the Chicago fire, when, burned out of home and possessions, the Shearin family came to Colorado to start anew. Miss Shearin died in St. Joseph's hospital where she has lived many years.

CASTRO DEPORTED; WOULD NOT ANSWER QUESTIONS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—The order of the immigration authorities at New York for the deportation of Cipriano Castro, according to the understanding of officials of the department of commerce and labor, grew out of the refusal of Castro to answer questions propounded by the board of inquiry concerning charges that he was connected with the assassination of General Parades in Venezuela, for which he is under indictment although he never has been tried.

In a statement issued by Commissioner of Immigration Williams, giving the first explanation for the deportation of Castro and setting forth the findings of the board, it is charged that the former president of Venezuela has "committed frequent perjury by pretending to be ignorant of matters concerning which a man of his intelligence and holding the position which he has undoubtedly possesses knowledge."

Harold A. Content, acting for George Gordon Battle, Castro's attorney, said the case would be taken into the courts for decision.

Shoe Men Say That Laws Threaten to Kill Big Industry

NEW YORK, Jan. 15.—Dark days are ahead for the boot and shoe industry in the United States, in the opinion of members of the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers association, in annual convention here. The parcel post, the proposed reduction of the tariff and the agitation for "pure shoe laws" the manufacturers say, are responsible.

"Under the present tariff rates, the foreign shoe is gradually, but surely invading our market. And it will not be long when it will do so under circumstances of great disadvantage to the American manufacturer," declared President John E. Hanan, in an address sent from Colombia.

A committee appointed to look into the agitation for a "pure shoe law" reported that the present high cost of manufacturing shoes certainly will go higher if congress passes a bill calling for all leather footwear to be made in the United States. By means of which other material than leather can be used in shoes, the committee reported, ought to be rewarded by the government, not penalized.

Denver's Assessor May be Removed

DENVER, Jan. 15.—Assessor Clara J. Fletcher faced the serious probability of being removed from office when he learned today that the United States Fidelity and Guaranty company of Maryland had withdrawn from his $50,000 bond which he was required to give as security. Mr. Fletcher was assigned by local officials of the company for their action, though it is reported that the controversy into which Fletcher's threatened 10 per cent reduction in the assessed valuation of Denver county had thrown him with state and city officers is responsible for the action on the part of the bonding company.

Asks Release of Man Who Slapped Her Face

CHICAGO, Jan. 15.—So wrought up was Peter Stano when Rose Kowal refused to marry him last week that he slapped the girl and otherwise indicated by his actions that he was a frenzied man. Rose caused his arrest and Peter was sentenced to 300 days in the workhouse.

Today found Rose in Judge Sabath's court.

"Oh, judge, I love him so; restore him to me," she wailed.

A few minutes later Peter was on his way to court in an automobile. Judge Sabath then made Rose the wife of Peter, and the couple hurried away to buy the little some candy.

Turk Warship Gets Away in Fog; Greek Fleet in Pursuit

ATHENS, Jan. 15.—The Turkish cruiser Medjidieh performed a daring feat in a heavy fog last night. She steamed out of the Dardanelles and passed unperceived through the lines of the Greek destroyers cruising off the straits. She appeared at noon today off the island of Syra, one of the Cyclades, and bombarded the powder magazine and coal depots. These were not damaged, but the electrical power station was wrecked.

The Medjidieh also fired on the Greek auxiliary cruiser Macedonia, which was undergoing repairs in Syra harbor. When 15 shells had been fired, the Macedonia, after landing a crew to maintain order in the town and to strengthen the guard over the Turkish prisoners, sank the Macedonia in the harbor to prevent her destruction by the warship.

The Medjidieh then left in the direction of Smyrna. The Greek fleet has been ordered to intercept her. So far as is known the other Turkish warships have not left the Dardanelles.

Wilson and Goethals to Confer About Canal; Asks James' Opinions

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 15.—President-elect Wilson announced today that he had invited Colonel George W. Goethals, chief engineer of the Panama canal, to confer with him here Friday.

The governor declared he would try to obtain as much information as possible about the canal question from Mr. Goethals and looked forward to the visit with much interest.

The governor also said he was arranging a conference with former Governor Marshall, the vice president-elect.

"I want to get into touch with Governor Marshall as soon as possible and get his views on men and policies," said Governor Wilson. "I have delayed only to get a date convenient to him."

The day was one of many conferences. Senator-elect Ollie James of Kentucky, came by invitation from the president-elect to express his views on what legislation the extra session should take up and what he thought of certain cabinet suggestions.

Senator Gore of Oklahoma, who had the latest information from the various states in which senatorial contests are being waged. The senator said the bill he had introduced yesterday to increase the membership of the United States supreme court had been proposed of his own initiative and that he had avoided purposely discussing it with the president-elect.

FORGETS TO CLAIM BIG LEGACY—ABSENT-MINDED

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 15.—Pascal Hixon, a railroad clerk, is so absent-minded he forgot an appointment today at which he was to claim a legacy of $25,000.

Hixon's father, George L. Hixon, of Chattanooga, died about a month ago, leaving an estate valued at $125,000 to his sons, Pascal and George, Jr.

His family had lost track of Pascal for some years, but he finally answered an advertisement inserted by his brother in a St. Louis paper. It was arranged that he was to meet his brother in Chattanooga today to claim his share of the estate, but he forgot to go.

His brother notified the police to find him, buy his ticket and see that he got on the train, which they did. The police express doubt, however, as to whether he will forget to get off at Chattanooga.

MRS. PATTERSON OPPOSES PROPOSED TRANSFER

Mrs. Minnie W. Patterson, pastor of the Hillside Congregational church, yesterday asked the city council to refuse to sanction a transfer that she claims is being contemplated in plans of the Hillside Improvement society to gain possession of the building, donated some years ago by the city to the Rev. Lee Patterson, as trustee for a Hillside Boys club. She was informed that the city had no further authority in the matter.

Mrs. Patterson said that she is acting as agent for her son, who is out of the city, and that she intends to change the name of the organization from the Boys club to the Parish house and to open it to lectures and other instructive features.

SCOTT WRITES BOOKLET ON POVERTY AND WEALTH

"Poverty and Wealth, and the Transformation of Forces" is the title of a pamphlet just published under the pen name of "Waddie" by J. W. Scott, an old-time resident of this city. The pamphlet, which has been circulated locally, contains many striking ideas. Scott discussed the causes that produce inequality in the financial conditions of men, all those usually assigned, he says, being "primarily effects of one universal cause, that is beyond the control of man, and can only be affected by man as he affects the longevity of his race by the application of the sciences of medicine and surgery." The nature of constructive and destructive forces in human society and their constant transformation from one category into another are also discussed.

Operated for eight solid hours (continuously) by 8 of the world's fastest typists, in half-hour relays, one Underwood Typewriter (taken from stock) produced the magnificent total of 55,911 words, averaging nearly 10 strokes per second. The crucial test of stability was here shown. Nowhere, at any time, has a typewriter turned out such a tremendous amount of work in the same time. This is a world's record.

The UNDERWOOD TYPEWRITER in the International Speed and Accuracy Contests won:

- First Nine places in the World's Championship.
- First Four places in the World's Amateur Championship.

AMMONS' FIRST MESSAGE

THERE was nothing startlingly novel in the message of Colorado's new governor, Elias M. Ammons. He preaches business advancement, development of the state's resources, economy, anticonservatism, and mentions, without particularly emphasizing them, several progressive measures which he thinks should be enacted into law. Among these are the abolition of the assembly feature of the primary law, "if it cannot be amended to effectively carry out its original purpose," a law prohibiting the fraudulent signing of initiated measures, a cheaper advertising law, a single four-year term for elective officials, a comprehensive banking code, a blue sky law, a public utilities law.

The governor strongly urges the development of a state good roads system, because the Panama exposition of 1915. He believes the work must be carried on under the supervision of some efficient centralized body, but makes no specific recommendation as to the composition of its body, nor does he point out where the money for road-building is to come from.

There is nothing new in his anticonservatism tirade. He goes over the ground so many times in his political speeches, posing with the suggestion that "the general assembly should memorialize President Wilson and congress, setting forth in detail suggestions of changes in administration of the public domain to comply with the best requirements for settlement, development and local taxation."

The governor finds in the present financial condition of the state argument in favor of the continuance of the state tax commission. He thus sets forth the present deplorable state of the public exchequer:

"With $126,000 of interest on the state bonds, settlement of old debts, with $115,000 to pay advertising the initiated and referred bills. The last election, with a demand for $100,000 for the big expositions of 1915, with added expense to keep pace with the growth of our educational and other institutions, and with the necessity of keeping taxes within reasonable bounds, there is every obligation to hold appropriations and expenditures of all departments of the state at the lowest possible point consistent with efficiency. The estimated state revenues for the present period are no greater than those of the last."

"During 1911 and 1912 $158,000 of surplus funds were received from previous years. No considerable sum of this kind may be expected during the present administration for the reason that anything collected for the past two years must go toward paying the over-appropriations for that period. The tax commission will probably be able to bring about considerable increase in the revenue, but it will take a large part of this to offset the transfers received by the recent administration from those which preceded it."

Governor Ammons confessedly has no great desire to shine as a reform governor. He asserts that what he is going to give the state is a business administration. If he can really place the finances of the state upon a sound basis he will at least have achieved a success denied to his predecessor.

THE PEOPLE'S SENATORS

A GREAT progressive reformation was effected in Colorado on Tuesday, when, without regard to party, John F. Shafroth and Charles S. Thomas were elected United States senators by vote of the Colorado assembly. It goes without saying that the two gentlemen were not the choice of The Gazette. But the people had been given the opportunity to vote for their choice, and they had selected Shafroth and Thomas. It remained for the legislators but to register in a formal manner the election already made by the people.

With but few exceptions the Progressives voted for Shafroth and Thomas. It was their duty to do so. They really had no option in the case. Many of them had subscribed to statement No. 1, and those who had not done so were morally bound to vote for the people's choice by reason of the declaration of the Progressive platform in favor of the popular election of senators.

It is to be hoped that the fact that they were elected, not by a partisan legislature, but by the people themselves, will make Messrs. Shafroth and Thomas, as senators, independent of the politicians, striving only to know and to do the will of the people who have chosen them, for their high office.

WE ARE RESPONSIBLE

WHEN girls and boys go astray in dance halls the parents are primarily responsible, of course. But the day is past when we can throw the whole responsibility upon the parents. Are the parents alone responsible for the lax moral conditions that prevail in certain dance halls? Do the parents alone of our citizens have the responsibility for the election of the officials who are supposed to have supervision over these places? Can parents who work hard all day, away from home, and who are compelled to live on a mere pittance, give their children the care they ought to have? Is it to be expected that children who live in a one-room shack will be satisfied to go through life without seeking any of that pleasure that is the due of all childhood?

When boys and girls go astray the whole community is responsible. If there are dance halls in Colorado Springs where every law of morality is scorned it is because the good people of this city have failed in their duty. The blame can't be shifted to the shoulders of the city officials, either. We elect the city officials, and if they fail in their duty we can recall them.

The people of Colorado Springs owe it to the boys and girls of this city to provide places of amusement where they can enjoy themselves, in surroundings as clean as the home should be. Other cities have provided such places; why should not Colorado Springs do the same?

A NEW PHASE

DEMOCRATIC antiprotectionists are meeting with some entirely new experiences in the present tariff hearings. It has been the time-honored Democratic campaign argument that protection is the mother of trusts; that all that is necessary for the destruction of the trusts is the elimination of the protective tariff.

Yet here, before the house ways and means committee, appears E. R. Crawford, an independent manufacturer, arguing that a reduction in the tariff on steel will result in foreign importations. Foreign importations will force a reduction in prices by the steel trust, and this will force the small independents out of business. Mr. Crawford asserts that the trust has merely suffered the independents to do business, and that foreign competition would give it an excuse to drive the independents out of business.

As quoted by the Associated Press Mr. Crawford contended that the United States Steel corporation

"has steel producing capacity today greater than Great Britain and Germany combined, and that with all that it represented only 65 per cent of the producing capacity of this country," that it could defend its position even if the tariff was wiped out; that it felt secure and "can take care of itself from legislation, no matter what may arise."

It has been shown, too, that there is a world-trust in aluminum, as well as in certain other industries, and in shipping. It looks as if, in certain industries, at least, tariff reductions or removals will merely deliver the United States from the grasp of American trusts over into the hands of foreign trusts. Or, as in the steel industry, if American supremacy continues, it will be because the American trust is able to produce more cheaply than the foreign trusts—and to drive out by its cheaper methods of production, small American competitors.

But what an overhauling all this will make necessary in future Democratic campaign textbooks!

UNWORTHY

CERTAIN members of the state legislature, because the people didn't vote as these statesmen thought they should on the initiated laws at the last election, are attempting to evade the referendum law by attaching an emergency clause to legislation, declaring its passage necessary to the public health and safety, and thereby relieving it from the possible operation of the referendum.

That won't do. If the referendum is to be evaded in that manner, of what use will it be? It's a weapon that sometimes works both ways. But if the people decide against the schemes of those who favor direct legislation, is that any reason why the latter should seek to avoid a reference to popular vote of measures championed by them?

CHANGING A LEGAL CUSTOM

ONE legal custom has received a rude jolt in California. A judge who reduced the bond of a man accused of criminal assault—thereby permitting the accused to escape—attempted to justify his action on the ground that it was the "usual custom."

The women who are seeking this judge's recall can't see any justification for a "usual custom" that permits a criminal practically to purchase his freedom. Whether the recall of this judge proves successful or not, it's safe to say that, since the women have won the vote in California, one "usual custom in the police courts" will be changed.

AN EXPLANATION

To the Editor of The Gazette:
A word of explanation is needed in regard to the last clause of your excellent report of Mr. W. B. Collier's lecture at All Saints church last Sunday evening. In the discussion that followed the lecture I remarked that whilst we had cause to be proud of our state institutions, and that under the splendid leadership of Thomas J. Tynan our state penitentiary had achieved a national reputation and was a model of advanced prison methods, yet we had one institution, the state reformatory, which was a disgrace and menace to the state.

That institution has well been called an "Inch-biter of vice." One prominent minister in Denver told me the other day that having repeatedly visited Buena Vista he would just as soon send a young man to a better settlement as to the state reformatory. In one case he might contract a terrible disease, in the other vice and crime.

And yet such an institution stands in Colorado as a reformatory.
Finding that the prison association had filed a petition with the new governor asking for the appointment to the wardenship of McArthur A. Dutcher, the only man who has ever made the reformatory a success, and who was removed by political influences, I gladly consented to present a similar petition from Colorado Springs, including in that petition the names of Mr. Thomas J. Tynan for warden of the state penitentiary and Miss Helen M. Grenfell for prison commissioner.

Let me add that any governor who would attempt the removal of such a man as Mr. Thomas J. Tynan would commit political suicide at the start. But if it is correct the state is in danger of losing him by reason of a call to an eastern institution. It is for those who honor and respect such a man to see to it that he is kept right here in a state which he is helping to place at the forefront of the states of the union for its modern prison methods.

"If I Had Only Realized"

By RUTH CAMERON.

"If I had only realized when I was a child how much more work it made to have people disorderly and careless about things I am sure I should have been more careful. But I didn't realize."

That is the oft expressed sentiment of one young woman who has recently gone to housekeeping in a home of her own. And I fancy there are many of us who could say the same thing—we didn't realize. And not about that matter only but about many matters.

I have heard it said that children are naturally selfish. I beg to differ. I think they are naturally full of the most generous impulses. But I do admit that they are naturally thoughtless and that is what makes them seem selfish. It is not that they would be deliberately selfish and unkind. It is just that they have lived so short a time that they do not understand the trouble and pain and self-denial they may be the cause of—they just don't realize.

I once knew a wise mother who grasped this fact and based her training on the effort to make her children realize exactly what they were doing when they were thoughtless or careless or unreasonable.

For instance, take the very matter of which the young housewife spoke. This mother had a daughter who was terribly slack about leaving things around. She would come into the house and leave her coat on one chair and her fur on another, throw her gloves on the table and put her hat pins on the mantel-piece, and only put away her hat because she was afraid something would happen to the feathers if she didn't. Her mother decided to make the daughter realize the trouble she was causing, so she told her that for the next week she, the mother, would not pick up one thing that any of the children drew left lying round, that her daughter must keep the house in order as a punishment for past misdeeds, and that if she failed to do so, she would not be allowed to go to a certain function to which she was looking forward. As all the other children inherited more or less tendency to disorderliness from an artistic father, her task was by no means easy. Needless to say, the end of the week found her saying, "I never realized how much trouble leaving things round made. I will be more careful in the future."

Again when the two older children got the habit of teasing for things that were beyond the family purse, this wise woman instead of scolding, simply took them into her confidence about the family income and outgo, asked their help about keeping the accounts, and without saying a word of her purpose to them, soon made them realize for themselves why they could not have everything that other children had. And after that she had no more trouble with teasing.

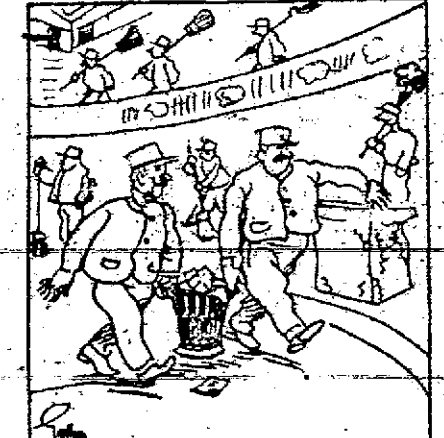

Look back into your own childhood and see if the unkind, the selfish, the thoughtless, the cruel things that you did were not all done because you did not realize.

That better basis, then, could we have for training our children than helping them to realize now instead of years afterward when it is too late?

ALBANY

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

Albany is one of the most famous seven sleepers of America, the other six being St. Joseph, Mo.; Charleston, S. C.; Quincy, Ill.; Wheeling, W. Va.; Louisville, Ky.; and Lowell, Mass. Albany has 100,000 people, but this is because it got a very early start. The French had a post at Albany in 1540. The Dutch settled it in 1617, and long before the year 1700 Albany was a neat village, full of red brick houses with high steep gables. One hundred and twenty years ago it became the capital of New York and was one of the leading cities. Thirty years ago it had

"The ever growing horde of state employees required to dust and sweep the capitol."

90,000 people. Since then it has been sliding up and down in its effort to enter the 100,000 class like a frog climbing out of a damp well. In 1910, thanks to the ever growing horde of state employees required to dust and sweep the capitol building, it got over the line by a few hundred margin and is now one of the 50 big cities of America.

Albany is the meeting place of half a dozen railroads, two rivers and several canals, and about 111,000 New York politicians. Its principal fame comes from the latter fact and its principal task is to support its city and county government in the luxury to which it is accustomed. It contains many fine state buildings, including the state house, which cost $25,000,000 though no one was ever prosecuted for this fact.

A great many noble statesmen have lived in Albany briefly as governors of New York, but most of them escaped afterwards to the presidential chair. Chester A. Arthur, ex-president of the United States, is buried in Albany, but not as deeply as the rest of the Republican party is at present.

Albany is famous among the cities on the New York Central for its depot, which is quite modern. It will be the terminus of the new Erie canal which is being double tracked and otherwise improved, and when the traffic of the world begins to flow past its doors again at low rates Albany will wake up after a sleep which has made Rip Van Winkle's seem like a cat nap and will waddle past large numbers of its scornful rivals.

LIGHTNING WILL STRIKE TWICE IN SAME PLACE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 15.—Lightning does strike twice in the same place. Early this morning two successive bolts wrecked the Point Bonita life saving station on the Marin county shore of the Golden Gate. The thunderstorm was the first here since January 26, 1912. Just after midnight the first bolt splintered the station's steel staff. Not long after a second bolt struck and demolished the station. The lightning played mischief with the plumbing and left the station open to the weather. Heavy rain prevented a fire and nobody was injured.

THE HASKIN LETTER

NEEDLES AND PINS

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

From time immemorial these small instruments of trouble to the married man have played an important part in the evolution of human civilization. Civilization cannot exist among unclothed human beings, and clothing cannot be produced without needles to sew it. Consequently, the use of the needle dates back to the stone age when it took the form of a hooked bone by means of which the primitive woman drew together the skins of the animals captured by her lord and master, fastening them with sinews in lieu of thread. And because needles were difficult to obtain and sinew even more so, and also because different occupations required a change in the manner of draping the prehistoric robe, a temporary fastening had to be evolved. This was pinning and nature provided strong, smooth thorns which required little or no preparation to make them serve their purpose. Thus the primitive family was quite as dependent upon the needle and pin for their bodily comfort as is the family of the present.

"Curious African Custom." The Kafirs in Africa are today using a curious combination of the needle and pin. They have an iron pin with a round head. They tie a horse, or a rooster, or a dog, or a pig, or a goat, by passing the needle through the ear, and by puncturing holes in the fabric they desire to sew, are able to put stitches effectively and smoothly though their method seems laborious compared with the use of the modern needle which they are now learning to use. Soon the Kafir needle will be found only in museums, although it is still being used by the olden women of the tribes.

There is an almost endless variety of needles and the different uses of them are increasing. The use of the needle for knitting, shoe making, and garment making calls for special needles which must be changed frequently to keep up with the improvements developed in the machines. There are a number of kinds of cooking needles which were well known in Europe but it took an American to invent the ham needle which is used in all of the great meat packing establishments of this country. It is really a thin knife blade tapered to a point, but it has a long oval eye to carry the stout twine drawn through the end of ham and other pieces of meat which have to be hung in the smoke house.

Americans First to Improve. The improvements upon the various kinds of machine needles are largely made by Americans although the best hand sewing needles are still supposed to be imported from England. The development of the shoe making trade has called for many special kinds of needles, one of the most unique being a needle and curved into a traction of a circle. It is used for putting the welts upon shoes. Many of the needles used in sewing leather are triangular in shape instead of round. The fine glove needles are triangular down to the extreme point. The knitting machine could not be made practical until the idea of having the needles hooked at the end occurred to the inventor. After that principle became recognized the evolution of the knitting machine was assured. No less than 4,397,583 gross of machine needles of various kinds were manufactured in this country last year and about one-sixth of these were designed for some part of shoe manufacture.

Delicate Surgical Needles. The development of surgery calls for an important class of needles for their somewhat gruesome uses. It is the development of the surgeon's needle which is largely responsible for the success of many operations and for the comparatively unnoticeable scars, resulting from the use of the surgeon's knife upon the face or hands. Expert dermatologists, who devote their skill to the improvement of facial defects, have originated several new forms of surgical needles, one of the most remarkable of which is the nose needle, which can sew clean through the cartilage of the nasal organ when a change in its outline has been deemed desirable.

According to a recent estimate, the daily consumption of needles throughout the entire world amounts to over 2,000,000. The women of the United States use about 300,000,000 needles each year. In addition to the machine needles, about a half million gross of ordinary sewing needles are manufactured in this country each year and a little more than that number are imported from England. The manufacture of needles takes an intricate routine requiring at least 22 distinct processes from the time the wire is cut into proper length until the finished needles are finally stuck into the purple paper used to prevent their rusting.

Putting Eve in Needles Difficult. To many people the placing of the eye in the needle is the most interesting process, because of the minute exactitude required. It is related of a Russian prince who went through an English needle factory that the expressed his surprise that a hole could be put in so fine an object as the silver of steel designed for a fine cambric needle. "Will your highness give me a hair from your head?" asked the distinguished visitor through the factory. The hair was given and the manager passed it to the workman at the drilling machine who put a hole through it and presented it to the prince threaded with a bit of silk of microscopic fineness.

The manufacture of needles and pins is usually conducted in the same factory and the output is usually reckoned together in the making up of government reports. There are now 40 of these establishments, fewer than were reported several years ago, although their aggregate production is much greater. The employ about 5,000 wage earners, a large percentage of whom are women and children, because with the improved machinery, there is less need for highly skilled laborers. The total products of these factories amount to over 35,000,000 in annual value. The larger part of this is in pins, for the United States does a large part of supplying the world with pins for which there is an ever increasing demand.

Use 125 Pins Each. The oft-repeated question, "What becomes of all the pins?" has never yet been answered and last year there were used in this country alone about 110,000,000,000 common pins which is an average of more than 125 for each man, woman and child. The average was only 72 a few years ago but in all probability, in a few years it will reach a pin a day of which no trace is found and the students of waste products have before them a complex problem. The greatest number of cheap pins are manufactured in Connecticut, which last year turned out almost 50,000,000 gross.

The earliest form of pins, excepting those of thorns and small fish bones, were made of bronze and these antedate any historic record. In ancient Egyptian tombs there have been found pins of many sizes, some of them elaborately ornate. Among the relics of the prehistoric lake dwellers in Europe many pins of bone have been found, some of them rude and others of fine form and finish. Quite a collection of these has recently been secured from the bottom of a lake in Switzerland. Among them are some with double prongs similar to the modern hairpin. Some of the pins of antiquity had ingenious design intended to enhance their utility. In the Holy lands now tourists will frequently pick up bronze pins made with a loop and a knob which were used to gird up the garments of Biblical characters.

First Made in Europe. The common pins were first made in Europe about the middle of the fourteenth century and they became general in England some time later. In 1483 the importation of pins from France was forbidden by an English statute although in 1540 Queen Catherine had them imported for her own use.

OUR "FIRST" ANNIVERSARY SALE

CELEBRATING IN AN UNUSUAL WAY THE FIFTEENTH ANNIVERSARY OF OUR VALUED BUYER MR. NOLAN M. BISHOP
TODAY, JANUARY 16th, 1913

During the twenty years of our business life in Colorado Springs—we have never held an anniversary sale. Today—Thursday—we are going to break the record—and in recognition of Mr. Bishop's fifteenth anniversary in our employ. It is not so much with the idea of selling goods that we do this—but is a "complimentary sale" in Mr. Bishop's departments in recognition of fifteen years of active service:

—As many of our customers will remember, Mr. Bishop first took charge of our linen section fifteen years ago. After several years he changed to "silks" and soon had full charge of the buying, and was given an interest in the profits of that section. Next, the wool dress goods were added to his care. This position he held until one year ago, when our growing business necessitated a change and Mr. Bishop was given full charge of the management and buying of all yard goods on the first floor comprising silks, dress goods, linings, linens, white goods, wash goods, domestics and bedding, with an interest in the profits thereof.

—We believe that public recognition is due a man after this length of time—who has "made good" and we take this means of giving it.

We ask all of our and his friends to come in today and shake hands with Mr. Bishop—whether you want to buy or not. This is our "At Home" to him.

use. About this time they began to be manufactured in England, and there was a special legislative act passed providing: "No person shall put to sale any pin or pins only such as shall have a double head and have the eye soldered fast to the shank of the pin, the shank will shape, the points well rounded, filed, pointed and shaped." At that time, as now, the best pins were made of brass, but this law was especially directed against iron pins whitened to resemble brass.

Pins were first made in the United States during the Revolutionary War, by Jeremiah Wilkinson of Rhode Island who formed the heads by twisting fine wires. Prizes were offered in Carolina in a few years later for the first native made pins and needles although there is no record of them having been claimed. The War of 1812 brought about a great scarcity of pins and their price went up so enormously that the women of the period carefully preserved every needle with a broken eye, which they converted into a pin by fixing to it a head of colored sealing wax. Some of these wax headed pins are still preserved as historic relics by women belonging to patriotic organizations.

The early pins had their heads made separately and attached to the shank, a tedious and unsatisfactory process, for frequently the heads came off. The need of a firm headed pin was so apparent to Dr. John Ireland Howe, a physician in Ballois hospital, New York, that he finally invented it and the Howe factories established in New England in 1863 manufactured pins from his method. Previous to this time as did the right, another American, had secured a patent in England for making solid headed pins. In 1841 Samuel Slocum invented a pin sticking machine for sticking the pins into papers and he entered into the Howe Pin-Manufacturing company which utilized his machine in his factory.

Safety Pin is "American"
The variety in pins is almost as great as in needles and there is no limit to their uses and designs. The safety pin is said to be a distinctly American invention although antiquarians now have claimed to have found its counterpart many centuries ago. A most important by-product of the pin and needle industry is the hook and eye which cause quite as much trouble to the modern married woman as did the right. The hook and eye can frequently be manufactured of waste materials in the pin factory. Nearly 2,000,000 gross of hooks and eyes were manufactured in the United States last year, a large portion of which were exported.
